A PETRIFIED WOMAN.

Now on Exhibition in This City.

Yesterday M. D. Reed arrived in this city in company with a very peculiar woman.

The woman is the famous petrified woman dug up a few months ago by some miners in Tuolumne county, Cal.

The woman was brought here in a box and when it came down on the train, the train men thought it was a corpse and conductor Bray wanted it put out of the car on the grounds that it smelt badly.

Scientists who have examined it put the age of the petrification at over 1,000 years.

At first it was supposed to be some sort of humbug like the Cardiff Giant but leading physicians have decided it genuine.

The figure is that of a well formed woman which in life must have weighed about 125 or 130 lbs. and in its present stone condition weighs 300 lbs.

It is lying as it might have laid when stretched out for burial, on its back with its arms resting closely by its side.

The entire body is as hard as marble and of a light grayish color. The arm was broken yesterday by accident in moving it from the depot, and Miller, the upholsterer, was sent for to fix it. He was a trifle bashful at first, but finally succeeded in putting the lady in proper shape for exhibition.

As she is the only petrified woman in the world she draws large crowds.

She will be on exhibition to-day at Old Theatre Hall, opposite the post-office.

Yesterday a small boy poked his head in the door and enquired of Reed if the woman was a half sister of the Cardiff Giant or one of his younger daughters.

Whatever clothes the lady wore when buried have been entirely destroyed by time.

Where is William Appleby?

EDITOR APPEAL—Sir: Would you kindly inquire through your columns the whereabouts of William Appleby, last heard of in 1883 by his wife. He was then on his way from Candelaria to Grantsville. Description: height 5ft., 8in., full beard; sandy complexion; if alive now about 62 years of age; weight about 160 lbs. Any person having any knowledge of his death or whereabouts will please address Mrs. C. C. Appleby, Phelan Building, San Francisco, Cal.

To-Night's Ball.

To-night Piute Tribe No. 1, of this city, will give an anniversary ball in order of the founding of the Improved Order of Red Men. It will be a very interesting social event, and special trains will be run from Virginia City and Reno, bringing the warriors to the dance. The music will be of the best, and the arrangements for a good time are perfect.

Important to Mining Men.

It will be of interest to mining companies on the Pacific Coast to learn that Commissioner Carter has given instructions to the Mineral Division of Land Office to disregard the local State laws in the matter of mineral holdings by companies incorporated under the laws of other States. In California and other Coast States in order that foreign mining companies might obtain mining property, a certified copy of the charter has been required to be filed. The Land Office has been following this custom and required a certified copy of the certificate. Now it is only necessary to show that it has been duly incorporated under the laws of any State.

The City of Elko has notified its assessor to test the law creating a State Board of Equalization. The county of Elko had first better ascertain if it has such a commodity as an Assessor. The APPEAL holds that under the law there is no such thing as a legal Assessor in the State and no one has ever successfully disputed this statement.

Lost His Suit at Last.

The Eureka Sentinel says: Hon. Joe Williams of Hot Creek, Nye county, has been lawing some New Jersey parties about his homestead for twelve years. He won his case on different phases of it right along for ten or twelve times. Finally the other side got him before the United States Supreme and he lost. The full decision is not yet received. The cause of all the trouble is over a mill and mill-site located on Williams' homestead.

Phew!

Between Steamboat and Huffer's on the line of the V. & T., there is a defunct horse, and it has been dead a long time, too. Although the engineers crowd on all steam possible, as they near the place, they can't get away from the far reaching stench, when the wind is right, and it generally is. If something is not done pretty soon there will be a material decrease in passenger traffic.

A Drawing Card.

Dick Jose sang several hymns in the Episcopal Church in Reno Sunday, and the place was so crowded you couldn't buy standing room on the side walk within hearing distance. The collection were about the same as usual however. There is such good singing in the Carson churches, every Sunday, that Jose would hardly prove any extra attraction.

Death of Chas. Vesey.

Chas. Vesey, who used to be in the supply department of the V. & T., and well known here as an amateur theatrical performer, died on the 4th in Quebec, Canada, of consumption. He left many warm friends in this city, who will deeply regard his loss. He was a member of the Carson Lodge No. 4. K. P.

Run Over.

Yesterday afternoon Neunham's freight wagon ran over Tony Banning, a young boy who fell while climbing on the wagon. He was not seriously hurt.
